

About Los Bilingual Writers

Our mission is to promote and nourish literary cultures. Established in 2004, Los Bilingual Writers is a 501 (c)(3) non-profit organization based in San Diego, and we are committed to bridging literary cultures and enriching peoples' lives by inspiring a love of storytelling.

Los Bilingual Writers Anthology

Los Bilingual Writers Anthology is central to our mission. This annual, bilingual literary publication celebrates linguistic origins by binding together the writings produced by those involved in our three primary programs and the creative work of other authors.

All proceeds from sales benefit our primary programs. Los Bilingual Writers Anthology is published every June; visit our website for new or previous editions.

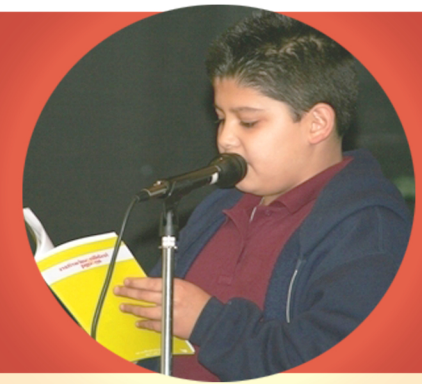

"This is truly a magnificent gift for my family."

"Being in a writing group has made me a better student"

on the Young Writer's Mentorship Program

Los Bilingual Writers offers three primary programs

Young Writer's Mentorship Program:

Our mentors conduct creative writing classes designed to engage young writers in the literary arts. Their essays, stories, and poems offer a sneak peak at our future generation of talented writers.

Intergenerational Literary Program:

We record the oral histories of community elders to help future generations appreciate the experiences of our Abuelitos, and their legacies.

The People's Stories Program:

By publishing the untold life stories of often overlooked individuals and groups, we help strengthen cultural communities.
